

DEMAND FOR TRAINED TEACHERS

In Vermont, as in all other states of the country, the demand for competent, well-trained teachers of public schools is strong and increasing. The complexity of modern life, the keen competition in industrial life and the growing importance and difficulties of social and civic problems are calling for better and more adequate education. The chief way to secure this is by better educated, more highly trained teachers.

The State Board of Education and the Commissioner, realizing this insistent need, have been giving special attention during the past year, under the authority imposed by the last legislature, and to the extension and improvement of opportunities for educating and training teachers in Vermont.

Last year three standard, two-year training schools were established, at the University of Vermont, Castleton, and Lyndon Institute. In addition, twenty-two one-year classes, giving the first year course only, were conducted in selected high schools throughout the State. In these schools over four hundred young people spent the year preparing themselves for teaching the rural and elementary schools of Vermont.

During the past year the work done in these classes has been standardized and improved, so that at present all the classes are offering similar courses, thoroughly well organized and balanced, and arranged to secure a high degree of knowledge and skill. The work includes both regular and normal training courses and actual practice work under approved conditions.

A NEW DEPARTMENT FOR THE "HERALD"

The Editor and Publisher of the "Herald," H. W. Osborne, has been making extensive repairs in his office on Main St., during the past two months. The presses and other printing apparatus have been moved back to make room for a new stationery store to be opened in the front of the office. Two coats of paint throughout have worked wonders and in a week or two, we will be ready to open our stationery store for business. We will carry a complete and exclusive line of stationery and school supplies, post cards and office supplies. Watch for further announcements in the "Herald."

Among the early September weddings of interest will be that of Miss Helen M. O'Brien and Cecil M. York, both of Portland, Me. Miss O'Brien is the daughter of Mrs. Flora O'Brien of Oxford Street, and Mr. York is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmore York of Pleasant Avenue.

Five opening for capable young people - much more so than in years gone by - both as regards salary, service and opportunities for advancement. This is especially true for those who have generous education and training.

Vermont, through its training facilities, offers excellent opportunities at very slight cost.

Young men and women are invited by the State Department to give the calling of teaching serious consideration.

An advertisement of these training schools appears in this issue. Further information will gladly be furnished those interested by addressing inquiries to the Commissioner of Education, Montpelier, Vt.

STATE FAIR CATTLE SHOW

This Department will be Large at White River Junction Sept. 12, 13, 14 and 15

The Vermont State Fair this fall to be held at White River Junction, Sept. 12, 13, 14 and 15, will be remarkable as a cattle exhibition. Not only will the display of high grade cattle include exhibits that will come from other states, but herds from Vermont will be conspicuous both in numbers and high breeding.

The Vermont cattle will include Holsteins from the state prison at Windsor, Holsteins from the state hospital at Waterbury, Jerseys from the state Agricultural School at Randolph and Ayrshires from the Industrial School at Vergennes.

Among the individual exhibitors will be N. A. Woodbury, proprietor of the Appletree farms, Burlington, who will show Guernseys.

With both the Stillman and Phillips strings of Morgans included in the Morgan Horse show this department of the fair will be most interesting. Frank Orcutt of New Jersey will be the judge in this department.

In anticipation of the largest crowds that have ever visited the state fair, Sec. Fred Davis, to insure better protection for the visitors, has had a three ft. board fence constructed around the oval formed by the trotting track and a five foot wire fence on the outside of the track. With purses aggregating $16,500 and with an entry list that is many times greater than in former years, the trotting features of the fair promise in themselves to draw record crowds.

THE TRIUMPH OF JUSTICE PLAYS IN OPERA HOUSE

On Monday Evening, the Cheerful Workers of East Charleston, presented "The Triumph Of Justice," a play in five acts, to an appreciative audience in the Opera House.

The cast, made up of home talent, gave a very vivid rendition of the play. Music was furnished by the Juvenile Orchestra. The audience was comparatively small, owing to the fact that the play was not advertised sufficiently. It is regrettable for the performance was an unusually creditable one.

Runaway

Monday afternoon quite an exciting runaway was witnessed when a span of horses owned by Mr. Burroughs of Morgan for some unknown cause became frightened on the Square. Altho hitched in a lumber wagon they made record time going over the viaduct, and coming to a stop in Amey's garage, without any particular damage to themselves or the wagon.

NEW FIRE APPARATUS

The Island Pond Fire Department has just installed a fine, up-to-date apparatus to replace the old hand and muscle affair which has been in use in the town for a score or more of years back. The new apparatus consists of 1000 ft. of hose and two 25 gal. tanks of chemical extinguisher, mounted on a Ford ton truck. It presents a fine appearance, and will give about 100% more efficient service than the old apparatus. This is one of the many improvements Island Pond needs.

ABOUT YOUR WINTER'S FUEL

Montpelier, August 10, 1922--
The state fuel administration in statement issued last evening to the people of Vermont stated that all coal dealers or consumers other than householders must make application to the state fuel administrator stating the amount of coal required, the purpose for which it is to be used and giving other information which the administrator must have.

Governor Hartness has appointed with H. J. M. Jones the following persons to compose the general committee which will act as advisory committee, Mason S. Stone, Montpelier; N. E. Pierce, Burlington; representing the dealers; J. W. Wardlaw of St. Albans representing the railroads; L. H. Bixby of Montpelier representing the bankers; N. K. Chaffee of Rutland representing the mercantile interests; W. G. Reynolds of Barre and Harry H. Carr of St. Johnsbury for the consumers and John Cross of Northfield for the manufacturers. From this committee later Mr. Jones will select his working committee.

There is no anthracite coal on hand now according to the information furnished the fuel office and Mr. Jones has authorized the following statement that it is very essential that users of soft coal who want immediate supply shall secure of him form 50 upon which the requisition for coal must be made and to which must either attach form, (A) which is a guarantee for prompt payment or emergency coal signed by a bank or trust company or form (B), which is a guarantee for payment by sight draft for emergency coal.

Without the intent of wanting to frighten the people of the state, but with the intent of making them realize that they must arrange to use wood and soft coal to help out the demand for anthracite coal, for there has been no anthracite whatever shipped into Vermont as compared with the usual supply, only four per cent of the ordinary amount having come to the state since April 1st. It will be two months before any coal can come to Vermont from the usual sources. Of course, there will be a little in proportion to what has come in from outside sources during the past two months, but wood and soft coal will have to be used in homes more than ever this winter and families should make their arrangements now.

Priority lists will be established in a few days. The forms provided by the federal government will have to be used in securing coal of any kind. These forms have to be approved by the state administrator and then forwarded to the federal administrator for his approval. The form will then be sent to the federal committee at the coal producing field, who will start coal on the way to Vermont. There is no anthracite available for distribution so the se forms refer only to soft coal. The price of coal will be fixed at the mines and the charges added, regulated by federal action to prevent profiteering. Rules governing the delivery of coal will be sent to dealers to prevent any duplication of orders. Cooperation is as essential now as it was during the war.

GALL FINDS LIFE BITTER

A certain Mr. Gall of Berlin has come to the conclusion that sometimes Life, as well as his name is bitter. At any rate, he found it so last Saturday night.

It appears that Gall was hired by ten unidentified men to cross the line and obtain a little something for them in the form of a tonic. Gall attempted to do so but returned without the hooch to Norton Mills, where the gang were waiting him. Angered by his failure to fulfill his mission, the ten hauled Gall from his car, gave him the beating-up of his life, did a little shooting to add to the excitement, and then piled into Gall's Packard Twin-Six and started for Canaan.

Sam Payeur, sent by Henry Eglington from Island Pond to overhaul them, was hot on the trail but did not succeed in catching up with them.

The marauders kept doing a little fancy shooting to keep in practice, but luckily no one was injured.

When the ten approached Canaan, they found twenty armed men waiting to receive them with open arms. They were taken, after some resistance and lodged in jail, where they will await trial. Gall is still suffering from his beating-up, and is a wiser man after his "bitter" lesson.

RAID - FIND - FINE

Early Monday morning, Deputy Sheriff Eglington, and Federal Officer Petrie, assisted by Walter Currier, raided the home of J. C. Paradis on what is known as Sawyer Mountain. They discovered a shack in the woods, covering an underground cave in which they found concealed 90 gallons of mash, several gallons of home brew, together with the usual moonshiner's apparatus. Paradis was taken before J. W. Thurston, acting Judge of the Municipal Court of the County of Essex, where he was fined $300 and costs for illegal possession.
